

Patio Café

1-column website

+ responsive design

PATIO

Street food The space Café Blog

A rotational pop-up restaurant and café serving up the freshest, tastiest street food from different chefs every two weeks

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

A rotational pop-up restaurant and café serving up the freshest, tastiest street food from different chefs every two weeks

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

```
margin: 0 auto 0 auto;
width: 640px;
```

A rotational pop-up restaurant and café serving up the freshest, tastiest street food from different chefs every two weeks

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

A rotational pop-up restaurant and café serving up the freshest, tastiest street food from different chefs every two weeks

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

PATIO

Street food The space Café Blog

A rotational pop-up restaurant and café serving up the freshest, tastiest street food from different chefs every two weeks

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

PATIO

Street food The space Café Blog

A rotational pop-up restaurant and café serving up the freshest, tastiest street food from different chefs every two weeks

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

PATIO

Street food The space Café Blog

A rotational pop-up restaurant and café serving up the freshest, tastiest street food from different chefs every two weeks

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

We'll be open this week Monday to Friday from 8am to 6pm so pop in to say hello and to enjoy an expert barista coffee or real fruit ice lolly on Finsbury Square's Patio.

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft drinks to our new (and hopefully returning) customers.

"I'd like to be a part of something with a bit of soul. I really want to know about the people I'm serving, what makes them tick."

We'll be open this week Monday to Friday from 8am to 6pm so pop in to say hello and to enjoy an expert barista coffee or real fruit ice lolly on Finsbury Square's Patio.

PATIO

Street food

The space

Café

Blog

A rotational pop-up restaurant and café serving up the freshest, tastiest street food from different chefs every two weeks

Amongst the office blocks between stylish Shoreditch and the bustle of the city find our lush spot of paradise perched at the edge of Finsbury Square's popular bowls green. It's the end of our official first day of trading and while it's still a week away until we have our first street food chefs in occupation, we've had a ball of a day serving up coffees, ice creams and soft

```
@media (max-width: 640px) {
    more css goes here
}
```

CSS instruction

```
@media (max-width: 640px) {
    more css goes here
}
```

when to do the instruction

```
@media (max-width: 640px) {
    more css goes here
}
```

think of it like

```
if (browser < 640px) {
    more css goes here
}
```